

As several of our members have committed to me, going to a songwriters seminar and/or workshop is a great way to learn more about the music business especially if you are an aspiring songwriter. Another activity that is often discussed with the question: "Any really good websites for songwriters?" The answer is "yes", there are several excellent websites for songwriters. Every month your Association depends on members to recommend websites for publication. The following listing is provided for you use. If you have constructive comments and don't mind sharing with the membership, please contact me at webmaster@fwsa.com.
